Los Angeles, April 27—This train, air conditioned, dust proof, finishes the journey from ocean to ocean, gliding down through the Cape Pass, in the mountains, to level land, orange and lemon groves, past San Bernardino and smaller cities into big Los Angeles.

A trip from East to West is a swift journey through a magnificent, forever changing moving picture.
William N. Packer, who knows about selling automobiles, was busy in Detroit, could not "make" this train at Chicago. But in these days that does not matter. He flew his plane to Kansas City and boarded this train, first stopping at St. Louis for business. Mr. Packer, super-salesman, says the great thing in closing a sale is to know when to "turn on the heat" and "don't be afraid to hear a man say no."

Two of William Randolph Hearst's five sons are on the train, going from Eastern newspaper offices to visit their father, who will soon celebrate a birthday. These young men and their three brothers have before them a problem that their father met successfully, namely, how to succeed in spite of a rich father.

Failing in that, they can fall back on the problem of their grandfather, Senator George Hearst, a forty-niner, who had to succeed in spite of poverty, and did.

Succeeding in spite of poverty is more amusing, much easier, but the other thing can be done. Alexander the Great, had a father, rich and powerful, the King of Macedonia, yet Alexander succeeded. In fact, he spent on natural history collections for his teacher, Aristotle, more money than his father left him.

California possesses "three kinds of gold": yellow gold, of which there is plenty left in the ground; "black gold," which is the oil, in some thousands of feet down, and the "white gold," water from the mountains, first used to develop power, then to irrigate crops.

Another gold, more important than those three combined, is the gold of education.

Driving through this country, if you see a particularly fine building, tall columns, wide grounds, fields for healthy play, that is a public school. Once it would have been the prison or feudal castle.

You see another building, almost as impressive as the high school. That is a public library. The accumulated knowledge of the world is FREE.

The source of future education is at Hollywood, producing pictures and sound that convey knowledge to the brain instantaneously. Devoted largely now to entertainment, the great work of moving pictures in the future will be education.

From moving pictures the student will learn more in one week than he can learn from books in a year, and learn so that he will never forget.

A Russian girl, Ayn Rand, writing for MacMillan a book about Soviet Russia, called "We the Living," tells of a moving picture theater with a film glorifying Communism, and above it, in electric lights, "Comrade Lenin said, 'Of all the arts, the most important one for Russia is the cinema.'"

Of all the arts, the most important for every country in the cinema, or moving picture. It can tell in two minutes, convincingly, more than Horace Wesley could write in two long columns. And people will see the picture and understand it. They would not read the two long columns, or, if they did, they would not understand them.

STATE WIVES SWEEP SEEN FOR LONDON PRIMARIES

FUDER BACKING EXPECTED TO BRING OUT BIG ROSE

name in the space provided on all ballots.

Fuller's appeal to the electorate, in which he declared he sincerely believed Governor Landon "would make a great President," gave tremendous impetus to the Kansas candidacy.

In addition to expressing their preference for a presidential candidate, voters were choosing 33 delegates to the Republican National convention and 8 to the Democratic convention.

They were also selecting delegates to state convocations and members of ward, town and state committees.

LIKED TO COOLIDGE

Far and away exceeding all contents in significance, of course, was the presidential preference poll, although there were a number of bitter intra-state fights.

In his appeal for support of Governor Landon, former Governor Fuller said:

"Let me say to the people of Massachusetts that I sincerely hope they will improve the opportunity afforded them at the presidential primaries to write the name of Governor Landon as their preference for the Republican nomination for the office of President of the United States," the former Governor declared.

"Landon's excellent qualities as a statesman, his high character, his belief in the fundamental, a believer in the Constitution of the United States, with a proven record of accomplishment as an executive, in my humble opinion Landon would make a great President.

"Surely no patriotic citizen should neglect the opportunity of casting his vote in the primaries. There never was a greater need for our people to evidence their interest in public affairs.

"An awakened public interest in governmental affairs would of itself make for an improvement in governmental activities."

This issue carried by the voters to write in Landon's name through a special law enacted by the present legislature.

15TH FIGHT HOT

In delegate fights, that in the 15th Republican district is attracting the most attention, here John Richardson of Canton, retiring assistant commissioner and intimate of former President Hoover, is being opposed by a slate headed by former Representative Charles W. Hedges of Quincy. The Hedges group is all Landon.

In a special broadcast Hedges was introduced by President Edwin Parker of the "Landon for President Club of Massachusetts," as organizer of the Landon Club, a business man and lifelong Republican.

Both have declared openly for the Kansas Governor.

The position of the Landon group, it is admitted have been greatly strengthened by the wholehearted endorsements given to Landon's candidacy by such outstanding figures as former Governor Frank G. Allen, former Lieutenant-Governor Gaspar G. Bacon, and close friends of the late President Coolidge, such as "Doc" White and Frank Stearns.

Lieutenant-Governor Bacon issued another call for support of the Landon candidacy today, declaring:

"I hope that the people will take advantage of this election to register their preference for the Republican who can be elected President—Governor Alf M. Landon of Kansas."

WATCH NEW DEAL

While the Democratic "approved" state is pledged to support President Roosevelt in the national convention, observers in today's voting battle are keeping their eyes on showing that anti-New Dealers in the party will make.

Several opportunities to express their opposition are presented, chief of which are through votes for Representative Alexander P. Sullivan, who is running as a delegate-at-large to the national convention, opposing the big four, and by writing in the name of the Republican, Landon, or some Democratic like former Governor Ely as choice for presidential nominee.

FIGHT ON DEALERS

In the 10th Congressional district there was a hard-fought three-cornered contest. A slate, led by Edward Cummings, a former anti-New Dealer, was pitted against the hard-fought New Deal slate.

Charles H. Melrose led the Democratic State Committee's slate, and cutting into both was an unpicked ticket headed by John C. Brodhead, anti-New Dealer.

In that district more than 8 per cent of the registered vote had been at the polls less than two hours after opening.

In the 12th district Albert P. McCulloch, of Dorchester, was challenging the right of Traffic Commissioner William Hickey to be the district's representative.

In the 11th district also former

REDUCTIONS OF 1/3, 1/2

For you, Spring has barely arrived. For us, Summer is already upon the corner—literally rushing the Spring clothes off the racks. Many of these Spring clothes had absolutely nothing wrong with them, many are quite new—but they're not new enough for a store like Filene's. So—1-3 to 1-2 off! (In many cases intermediate mark-downs have been taken.)

HERE ARE A BAKER'S DOZEN OF EXAMPLES—EXAMPLES OF MANY, MANY MORE:

- 24 MISSES' COATS: boxy, swagger, reofer, Chesterfield, tweed, angora, or dressy. Were $29.75. Now $19.75.
- 18 WOMEN'S COATS: black, gray, navy dress coats also tweeds. Originally $25. Now $12.50.
- 39 WOMEN'S DRESSES: day or dinner. Were $12.75. Now $6.35.
- 1088 COTTONS: percales, broadcloth, pique, white. Women's and misses'. Were $1.68. Now $1.
- 23 FRENCH SHOP dresses 1/2 off. Now $14.85 to $24.75.
- 42 YOUNG BOSTONIAN SHOP misses' daytime dresses. Few evening. Were $16.75. Now $8.35.
- 80 MISSES' SWEATERS: Import or peasant type. Were $3.95 originally. Now $2.50.
- 44 MISSES' SPORT SHOP DRESSES: soft Spring colors, print or plain. Were $10.75 to $14.75. Now $5.35.

Mystery 'Hero'

Socialite Wins Movie Test
Under Assumed Name

King Fuad Dies

FILM CONTEST HERE FINDS HIM OUT

He tried out for fun and now he has the leading male role in "It Happened in Boston," the Boston-made movie.

He didn't use his right name, because he is a socialite and he didn't want his socially prominent family and friends to know about it.

But they did find out and so now—

Let's introduce Morris Emerson Davis, 20, of 36 Myrtle st., West Medford, who, under the alias of Jeremy West, caught the honors as the high school hero of the film.

He looks a bit like Leslie Howard; he speaks with practically the same soft, inaudibly delightful, Oxfordian accent.

He looks like a Harvard man, but he plans to go to Yale.

Which, as a thumb nail sketch, describes the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold Wheeler Davis.

Mother's Talent

Young Davis's mother, who as Miriam Pinney, before her marriage, was also a star in Vincent Club theatricals, and the lad says he takes his histrionic talent from her.

In between tutoring periods at the New Preparatory School, Cambridge, where he is priming himself for Yale entrance next Fall, Davis broods in line like the rest of the "hopefuls" last week until he made the grade and won the leading part.

"I never thought I would get anything out of it," he said, "in the most perfectly accented diction. I just thought I would see what I could do—that's why I gave a different name . . . you see I knew my family wouldn't approve . . . and they didn't when they found out . . . I got plenty, believe you me."

However, he said his family had permitted him to go ahead with his talent, which he plans to do.

Davis's father is head of the Boston Food Products Company.

His mother's father, Joseph Warren Pinney, who died last Christmas, was considered the greatest type expert in the country. He was head of the American Type Foundry Company.

His mother's two sisters are Mrs. John M. Taylor of Philadelphia and Mrs. Edward Peter Pierce, whose husband is the son of Judge Edw. Pierce of the Massachusetts Supreme bench.

Continuing Davis said he was just one of 2500 trying to be chosen.

MORRIS DAVIS

ROSAMOND PIER

Jeremy West, leading man of "It Happened in Boston," is none other than the socially prominent Morris Emerson Davis. Entering the movie contest conducted by the Boston Evening American and the Loew's Orpheum and State theaters, under the assumed name he won the leading male role. Here he is with Marion Flynn, who plays the leading feminine role, in a scene from the "It Happened in Boston."

Son Due To Be King of Egypt

Cairo, April 24 (INS)—King Fuad I, of Egypt, stricken with a throat infection late last week, died today.

He lapsed into a coma yesterday and his case was declared "hopeless," but early today a doctors' official bulletin said he had rallied. Death followed in a few hours.

King Fuad, 48, who was placed upon modern Egypt's throne by the British in 1922, remained ill throughout his reign, a half-century ago.

His death leaves Egypt's political situation tense.

Here to the throne is Crown Prince Farouk, who prepared to take the throne in England for Cairo tomorrow. Egypt, probably will be ruled by a regency until Farouk becomes of age. A group of three men was expected to be named. Those mentioned most prominently are Prince Mohamed Ali, King Fuad's nephew, Tewfik Nassim Pasha, former premier, and Mohamed Fakhr Pasha, minister of finance.

No Joke!

Hollywood, April 24 (TS)—By no means funny was the discovery made today by El Brendel, Swedish-dialect comedian, when he returned to his home after spending the week-end away from town.

Brendel found that, during his absence, burglars had ransacked the house, taking furs, jewelry and silverware valued at $2500.

"I did it for fun. I didn't expect a part. But I thought I would try. I was given a reading test, a voice and light test. They made me try it out nine times, and then told me that I was selected for the lead . . . I was indeed surprised."

"All this time, I said nothing to my family. I knew my parents would not like it but just wanted to do something on my own. After I was given the part, I confided in my 15-year-old sister, Miriam, who, of course, told the family about it."

"After much discussion, my parents finally consented not to interfere and to let me go ahead. I rehearsed all day Friday until 10:30 at night, Saturday, the 20th 10:30 a. m. and I worked from 9:30 a. m. until 1:30 a. m. Sunday, Sunday again we worked. But it was great fun."

"Of course, I am hoping to be able to get to Hollywood eventually, although only during the summer, since nothing can keep me away from Yale, if I obtain admission."

Arrangements are being made to have a gala Hollywood premiere on the opening night of the picture's engagement. Huge Klieg lights, radio microphones, celebrities and the leads in the film arriving in cars will only be part of an elaborate program.

The picture, production of which was made possible through the joint efforts of the Evening American and Loew's Theaters, will be shown on the screen of Loew's State and Orpheum Theaters just as soon as the film is edited.

PIERCED HEART SEWED UP

Worcester, April 24.—From the pierced, pulsing heart of Sydney McKee, 37, the delicate fingers of modern surgery plucked the broken point of a hatpin today and stitched the wound. The heart continued to beat.

Doctors resorted to one of the rarest of operations in an effort to save the life of the would-be suicide.

McKee drove a hatpin into his heart; it broke and left an inch of steel imbedded. He walked around for 10 hours before asking aid to relieve intense pain. Surgeons marveled that he lived.

The surgery was performed by Dr. Thomas F. O'Brien and Benjamin F. Andrews. Similar cases in medical history are comparatively few.

RAW, REAL FORCES HUNGRY HUMANS TO EAT BIG FOOD

Washington, April 28 (U.S.)—Poor people have been driven to eat canned dog food under the Roosevelt "New Deal" policy of limited production, Senator Dickinson (R., of Iowa, charged in the Senate.

While consumption of beef dropped, manufacturers of dog food have prospered, the Senator said.

He quoted C. E. Becker, former secretary of the National Dog Food Manufacturers' Association, as estimating that 100 million pounds of food prepared for dogs is now being consumed by destitute human beings.

"Lack of enforcement of pure food laws was bid to the Roosevelt administration by Dickinson.

THIRD CLASS DIET
The average American is now living on a "third class diet," because of skyrocketing prices under the administration's "foodways, don't plan" program which brings rewards from the government to those who adhere to the program, the Senator said.

"Now let us examine inevitable consequences which have followed the program of planned scarcity. Destroying millions of bogs forced millions of people to eat hungry, abandoned millions of acres of grain put prices for decent American food out of reach of decent American families.

"At the logic, the inevitable consequence of the deliberate and wicked waste, for the first time we have Americans living on food unfit for even dogs to eat. Testimony given by food manufacturers during hearings in Washington a year ago, a code for

SMILEY IS EVERYWHERE, GIRLS--JUST SMILE!

Everybody's smiling! Not just because spring is here! The ladies are smiling because a pretty smile may win for them one of those lovely new "stardom" dresses everybody's talking about. The gentlemen are smiling, too, because if wife's smiling countenance is encircled it may well mean less burden on the family bank roll. So be on the lookout for "Smiley" the Boston Evening American and Sunday Advertiser cameraman, whose special duty it is to "smile" ladies. Better still—keep smiling! Because he may pop up out of nowhere. Here's today's lucky winners: Left, a group of smiling ladies, "caught" in Essex street. Right, another group of smiling, snapped on the corner of Tremont and Avery streets. The women with heads encircled must identify themselves to the spring director, S. Winthrop square.

VETS' LAWYER SENT TO JAIL

Paul J. Stella, 35-year-old Boston attorney, today was given two sentences of 18 months in the penitentiary for embezzling funds of two disabled war veterans, who had been placed under his guardianship. One of the two men, indicted February 19, was forecast as a drive against attorney Stella's case was prosecuted and embezzled in something approaching record time.

Indicted Feb. 19, he pleaded guilty in federal court April 7, and was sentenced to 18 months.

Judge Hugh D. McLaughlin decided the sentences would run concurrently.

The amounts the court decided he had converted to his own use totaled $1250.

From the estate of Giuseppe Lombardi, he embezzled $957.50, and from the estate of George D. Rich, $302. The total under his extra was about $1250.

Mother Introduced To 2-Pound Baby

Mrs. Henry C. Baker of Walpole and her tiny two-week-old baby, Janice Lucille Baker, were introduced to each other at Norwood Hospital where the infant is recovering after a difficult birth.

Two weeks after birth, the little girl weighed slightly more than 2 pounds and 4 ounces.

Mrs. Baker, discharged as a patient, saw her baby for the first time since she came to the hospital. Here is the smallest baby ever born at Norwood Hospital.

(The Big-Hearted Photographer) Now you can knock husband all you want to—and they are knocked, because I'm one—but it was a husband who got Mrs. Jeannette Farley a new dress when she had failed to look at a newspaper on Sunday.

Mrs. Farley was busy and all that and her husband had the Boston Sunday Advertiser when he suddenly let loose a shout and called his wife.

"Look!" he said, "it's you!" So Mrs. Farley looked, and sure enough there was Mrs. Farley looking smilingly at herself from out of the paper, and around her head was a circle. And I was the lad who had taken her picture and she didn't know me from Adam.

I had also snapped another group of shoppers, and who was in the first but Mrs. Stella Blawat, a mill worker of Salem, who had saved up for this shopping trip.

Mrs. Blawat saw her own picture in the Sunday Advertiser, a picture also placed about the head.

Yesterday there were two more smiling girls raised in photographs taken at the Red Sox-Yankees game at Fenway Park on Sunday and published in the Boston Evening American.

Today more photographs are printed—and for each girl who identifies her smiling face, I'm stuck for a dress—although really the dress comes from the I. J. Fox Company's Washington street store, where each of the smiling girls will get her own Stardom garment.

I don't know much about those things, but the girls tell me this is the kind of dress inspired by Paris originals and currently worn by Hollywood.

Today I got to take some more pictures, so we smiling wherever you girls are. You can't tell when the honey man who wears a hair-cut might suddenly turn around and make a clicking sound with the box he carries.

Draper Sure Wife Lives; Denies Death Note Found

counsel, Attorney Charles E. Barnes, Jr., who has said a spokesman for the family also bore out this view.

After his brief statement Draper said he was retiring for the night and did not wish to be disturbed.

He said all available information in his possession had already been made public.

His statement came at the conclusion of a conference with his counsel which did not end until shortly before 10 p.m.

Previously Attorney Barnes declared the family had been in constant communication with the Georgia and had failed to establish that Mrs. Draper had planned to die in the Atlantic from the vessel.

New York police reported yesterday that an unidentified woman had committed suicide by leaping into the sea from the liner 150 miles out of New York.

Barnes declared that a wireless message had been received from Captain Townley of the Georgia stating that no one, so far as he knew, had gone overboard.

The liner arrived at Cohasset, Mass., yesterday and did not report a drowning on the trip from New York. Wherever it was, Draper mentioned on the passenger list.

RECEIVE NO REPORTS

Officials of the White Star line also stated they had received no reports from the liner of a drowning or a suicide. It was pointed out that such tragedies are customarily reported immediately by wireless.

Draper, accompanied by counsel, arrived at his home in Hopedale late last night from New York Governor Draper, stating and the matter but allowed Barnes to speak for him.

The latter told of the constant communication which had been maintained with the Georgia after investigators traced the missing woman as far as the liner on the night of April 20.

He said a full description of Mrs. Draper and details of her condition were forwarded. She had been under treatment at the sanitarium from which she disappeared last night.

He said a woman of that description on the deck who said her name was "Mrs. Draper."

The woman asked her to bring her a coat and in so doing appeared to be in a state of collapse.

However, Barnes pointed out, Townley was insistent that no suicides or drownings had occurred as the ship made its trip from New York to Europe.

The missing Mrs. Draper was traced to the Georgia, Barnes said, through a taxi driver, who recalled taking a woman, answering her description, from the Hotel Shelton, New York, to the dock on the night of April 20.

She had transferred to the Shelton from the Martha Washington Hotel, where she had stayed Saturday night, after coming to New York City from the sanitarium at Katonah, Barnes said the investigation revealed.

BUILT MANSION FOR HER

He said she had been at the sanitarium four months when she disappeared from the Georgia on April 13.

Barnes was also insistent that there was no indication that the missing woman intended suicide and the note she left at the Shelton contained any suicide message.

The missing woman is Draper's second wife. They were married

BILLS IN HAT, PAY 25 FINES

Speculators in Suffolk Superior Court, including District Attorney William J. Foley, witnessed a unique way of paying fines today when Judge John McCauley, who ordered 25 men $5 each on charges of being present where gaming implements were found.

The men had pleaded guilty. Thirteen other men, whose names were called on the same charges, were defaulted. John H. Drew was counsel for the defendants.

Seated in the rear of the spectators' seats, right alongside Deputy Sheriff John McCauley, who ordered the fines as the men stepped out, was an unidentified man, hiding a roll of bills under his hat, he pocketed $5 bills and handed them to the defendants as they approached McCauley.

Although a few paid the fine out of their own pocket, most of the men reached out for the $5 bill handed them by the unidentified man, who asked if they needed the money.

All 25 were arrested March 20 at a horse race betting establishment on Lancaster street, South End.

HEAD-ON CRASH IN WEST END INJURES 7

Seven persons were injured, one seriously, today when two automobiles crashed head-on in Charles street, West End.

Walter Rafferty, 48, of Main street, Watertown, suffered a fractured spine, and his name is on the danger list at Massachusetts General Hospital, where five of the injured were taken.

The drivers of the cars, police reported, were Franklin Hollenbeck, 43, of Cleveland street, Boston, and Miss Martha Whitton, 28, of Goodwin place, Beacon Hill.

Riding with Miss Whitton was Miss Estelle McKay, 28, of Blossom court, West End. The two young women were taken to Haymarket Police Station for treatment of lacerations and bruises.

Hollenbeck was cut and bruised. He was taken to Massachusetts General Hospital with Rafferty, the latter's wife, who suffered broken ribs and internal injuries; Everett Christopher, of Main street, Watertown, who was cut about the head and face, and the latter's wife, Dorothy, 34, who suffered a dislocation of the spine and a severe scalp wound. All were riding with Hollenbeck.

Seized on Old Law, 4 Hens Jail Him

Arrested last night on an old law, Anthony Pomposi, 37, of Snow Hill street, Boston, today was convicted in Chelsea District Court on a charge of stealing four hens.

He was sentenced to 30 days in the House of Correction, 20 for each purloined bird. He did not appeal.

Patriman Harold Cassidy encountered Pomposi last night on the parkway in Chelsea, straddling along with a sack on his back. The sack weighed.

Cassidy asked Pomposi where he was going, where he had been, and what he had in the sack. Pomposi's answers being unconvincing, Cassidy brought him in on the old blue law charge of being out late at night and unable to give a good account of himself.

SPORTSWEAR FAVORED In Van at Fashion Congress

Outdoor clothes, destined to be more important this season than ever before, were the feature of the Fashion Congress session in the Ritz-Carlton Hotel today.

Return of popular pastimes such as bicycling, hiking and roller skating and the approaching season of tennis, golf and other outdoor sports made this session a significant one.

Comfort and suitability were stressed in the discussion of outdoor fashions.

A distinguished jury of Boston socialites, including several prominent sportswomen, selected from the costumes shown 10 ensembles which were awarded the Fashion Congress black and silver tag of approval.

The judges, all women of recognized chic and good taste, based their decisions on their own knowledge of correctness and style in sportswear.

Miss Whitfield Painter of Dedham, social register tennis champion, was chairman of the judges' committee.

The other jurors included Mrs. Alfred H. Peabody, Mrs. Fred Whitfield Millauer, Mrs. Benjamin A. G. Thordahl, Mrs. John W. Wood, Mrs. Charles Bartlett and Mrs. Mark Hopkins.

Lanchester was served in the Chinese suite, 16th floor of the Ritz-Carlton Hotel, with the modeling and fashion discussion taking place during the luncheon.

The society girl models chosen to show outdoor clothes were Miss Betty Byron, Miss Louise Ranney, Mrs. Lawrence Grinnell, Jr., and Miss Dorothy Watters.

"I think the Fashion Congress is a grand institution," one of the judges said. "It gives readers of the Boston Evening American a chance to see the latest in outdoor wear."

ITALIANS GAIN 92 MILES WAR DRIVE

Rome, April 28 (AP)—Italy's war drive in Ethiopia, Marshal Pietro Badoglio reported today to his government that a motorized column moving on Addis Ababa already has covered nearly two-thirds of the distance from Dessie to the Ethiopian capital.

An official communiqué on his report said:

"On the northern front our motorized column, which left Dessie advanced 140 kilometers (85 miles) along the motor road to Addis Ababa without encountering resistance."

"Another column, which left Tera, Ha, advanced about 20 kilometers (12 miles), reaching the Cuello river."

"Sultan Aussa Mohammed Jid reached our line and made acts of submission to the military authorities."

"On the Somali front our victorious offensive is continuing."

"On the left of our line, the Libyan detachments which left Dugemmo defeated and dispersed strong enemy groups in the Fafan River valley."

"In the center, the Fascist column of the terrain in the vicinity of Hannaleh."

"There it captured three armored cars which were abandoned in the Fafan valley during the reconnaissance of the Maletti column Nov. 11."

"There also was recaptured the machine guns of the airplane of Lieutenant Minelli, who was awarded a gold medal."

"On the right wing, the Agostini column reentered itself at its positions in Ginnagadde."

"The air corps cooperated with the greatest efficiency in action along the entire front."

Shattered Ethiopian Army Back at Capital
Addis Ababa, April 28 (AP)—Thousands of Ethiopian troops, weary, exhausted and hobbling on bare feet, began to stream in today from the northern front.

Chased from back of foot and water, the refugees established quarters outside the capital by order of Crown Prince Asfa Wossen, so that Addis Ababa might maintain its status as an "open town" free from bombardment.

Many of them wounded and were carried on roughly improvised stretchers.

Those not wounded dragged guns picked up from their fallen comrades.

"My father, my brothers and my friends have been killed," some explained.

"We can fight the Italians, but God looked the other way when brother and brother and sister surrounded us day and night."

The reference to "brother" meant treachery by other Ethiopian tribes.

Police StoriesSentenced to Life,

In Prison Before Death

This is the 84th in a series of true detective stories from New England police annals being presented daily by the Boston Evening American and Boston Sunday Advertiser.

John W. English, one of the ace reporters for the American and Sunday Advertiser, relates this gripping story of "The Gorilla-Man Killer."

By JOHN W. ENGLISH

The fact that at least three women fell in love with Joseph Wilfred Blondin—two of them marrying him, to their sorrow—seems to lend support to the theory that there's something about a caveman still irresistibly appealing to many a feminine heart.

So far as good looks were concerned, Blondin couldn't have "got to first base" as a wooer. He had low legs, great gorilla shoulders, a potent head and a pock-marked face.

Nor was his disposition more attractive than his outward appearance. For he was surly of temper and as violent in his rage as any of the big jungle apes he so much resembled physically.

In Blondin's case, unmitigated ugliness and in the view of the man must have lain whatever he hid of fatal charm. Yet women lucked enough to succumb to this charm, so far as actual records show, was a dozen apple-cheeked farm girls of St. Polycarpe, Que., Blondin's native village.

She became Mrs. Blondin No. 1, a blond beauty and a woman of rough-handed tyrant of a husband, mothered a brood of his children. The manual labor for which his huge muscles and his gorilla-like physique best fitted him was distasteful to Blondin, so he tried his clumsy hand at something, as a supposedly easy avenue to wealth and leisure.

Naturally, it wasn't long before Canadian revenue officers laid a trap for the gorilla-man life jumper.

The authorities soon learned, however, that it was one thing to outwit Joseph Wilfred Blondin, but quite another thing to outfight him.

Slips Across Border

When two Dominion agents went to arrest him, he seized them by the nose of their necks, twisted their heads back and, letting them stunned and helpless as he slipped across the border to make himself a nuisance to Uncle Sam.

Drifting to Lowell, Mass., and eventually to Chelmsford, Blondin lay low for a year or so, first working as a farm hand, then obtaining employment in a hay and grain store.

Too primitive in his instincts to be happy long when a woman to cook for him and make him comfortable, the gorilla-man found the romantic influence of springtime, bought him a pair of resplendent yellow shoes, finally went to a courting in Lowell.

Feminine object of his attentions was a Mayan beauty named Emma Riley. She had been a mill worker at the Lowell mill, had accumulated a sizable savings-bank nestegg.

Having assured himself that his prospective bride would come to him with a sufficient dowry, he set his own earnings. Blondin proposed marriage and Emma Riley accepted, the affair on February 17, 1901.

Moved to Boston

After that, it was merely a matter of months—and of the assertion of a bit of husbandly authority—before the new Mrs. Blondin was persuaded by her bigamous spouse to withdraw her savings from the bank and move with him to Boston, a locality where she had neither friends nor relatives.

No given power, by any means, was the dinky furnished room to which Blondin brought his new wife. Their home was in a tenement in Green street, West End, from the sound of the name. The room was the "love-nest," both by day and by night, neighbors all immediately convinced themselves that Mrs. Blondin was no longer the recipient of any honeymoon endearments.

Blows and curses, instead, seemed to be her portion. Now and then she accepted her husband's abuse with unfeeling meekness. But when she sharpened her tongue as a defensive weapon and did her best to hold her own in the unequal domestic struggle.

News to Landlady!

Rumors of the storminess of the Blondin home life, finally, appeared, to reach the South End bachelors where the gorilla man was employed in a menial capacity.

At least, his boss opposed no strenuous objection when, on Saturday, April 27, 1901, Blondin asked to be allowed to quit work at 4 p. m. instead of at 5 p. m., the usual hour, saying that his wife was going to visit relatives in Providence.

The Gorilla Man

Trunk Murder

HE CARRIED THE HEAVIEST TRUNK HIMSELF

THIS TIME, THE REAL 'GORILLA' WAS TRAPPED

Joseph Wilfred Blondin, bigamist, hid out on police for over a year, after he killed Wife No. 2, a Lowell girl, in a Boston rooming house. He carried the body away in a trunk, hiding it in the woods near Chelmsford. A policeman's "memory" trapped the slayer in New York.

Body Found

There, on June 10, 1901, Mrs. Blondin's body was found, hidden behind a wooden pile in an isolated stretch of bushes, near the foot of East Chelmsford.

The "body" discovery was made by boys playing in the woods.

Identification of the remains was not immediately possible for the reason that the dead woman's head—crudely severed, as if with a kitchen knife—was missing.

Full description of the victim in Lowell and Boston newspapers. To the undertaking parlor in Chelmsford, where the body had been taken, came Mrs. Catherine Casey of Lowell.

"It's my sister, Margaret, who that married that no-good Blondin," she said. "I know where he is now. He's gone to New York."

A hasty conference of Lowell, Chelmsford and Boston police, on the night of June 11, resulted in the issuing of a warrant for the arrest of Joseph Wilfred Blondin on a charge of murder.

"We know where he is working and where he is living," said the police. "He's a gorilla-man. We'll pick him up in the morning."

That was their mistake.

Blondin's Cunning

They underestimated Blondin's cunning. He had read of the discovery of the body at Chelmsford.

He wasn't sure, at first, in his brutish mind, that a positive identification could be made. But he wasn't going to be caught.

Expenses Mount

Boston and Lowell detectives, travel-stained and weary, journeyed back and forth across New England and adjacent territory, checking up on suspects held for identification.

"Blondin" was captured at Route's Point, N. Y.

"Blondin" was captured at Mt. Vernon, Port Chester, Palham and New Rochelle, N. Y.

"Blondin" was captured at Stamford, Conn.

Then the trips began to get more arduous and the expense accounts were voluminous.

"Blondin" was captured at Great Barrington, New Scotland.

"Blondin" was captured at the little village of Tadousac on the St. Lawrence river 200 miles from Quebec.

"Blondin" was in flight, Quebec bound, with Boston and Canadian officers two jumps behind him, traveling by backhanded and changing horses at relay posts.

He just clumped up stairs on his bowed legs, his heavy shoulders barely appearing through the hall passageway.

Mrs. Blondin, alive, was never seen again by the landlady or by anyone else, with the possible exception of Blondin himself.

On Monday, April 15, Blondin told the landlady that his wife was waiting relatives in New York. He was to be giving up the room, as he had been offered well-paid work in Canada.

Most of Tuesday, April 20, the gorilla-man spent in vigorous house-cleaning, behind his own locked door. Late that afternoon he summoned an expressman, to whom he turned over a green trunk.

One of these was much heavier than the others, so Blondin hoisted it on his own tremendous shoulders and brought it downstairs to the waiting expressman.

In a mood more genial than usual, Blondin said goodbye to his landlady, settling his bill and even leaving a small tip for the chambermaid.

"With us, he said, 'My wife's waiting for me in New York. Then off we go to Canada, where I came from in the first place. I'll be big men there, now, for it's a big job I'm going to do.'

The landlady must have had her doubts as to what he was saying. She assured her departing tenant, however, that she hoped both he and Blondin would have a happy trip and do well in their new Canadian home.

Neither Blondin nor his wife, as a matter of fact, ever so much as set foot in New York or Canada (further north than Chelmsford).

headed strangers with pock-marked faces, by the dozen, infested the countryside.

So, naturally, he had come to police.

Who would have thought, he marvelled, that there would still be as much fun over the second Mrs. Blondin's whereabouts? Especially since his big lawful wife was still alive and well in Canada?

The police didn't argue with Blondin.

They brought him to Massachusetts, finally putting him on trial in Suffolk County.

The prosecution, foggy as to details of the actual killing and of the transportation of the body to East Chelmsford, was well enough contented with a verdict finding the defendant guilty of second degree murder.

Blondin was sentenced to life imprisonment. If his bar at Charlestown liked the capped gorilla-man, he gave an evidence of expected discomfiture.

He became a model inmate, accumulated more than $2000 from the sale of novelties of his own manufacture, finally died in 1918 of a heart ailment.

Blondin had only one real objection to his prison environment. He missed having a woman to cook for him and do his housekeeping.

But his hard luck was the good luck of the third woman officially known to have been murdered by Blondin.

She had become his fiancée in New York, where they were soon to have been married, when the gorilla man was arrested.

Tomorrow in the Boston Evening American the true detective story will continue with another thrilling New England crime story.

Jury Trial Debate
In Curley Center

Abolition of trial by jury will be debated tomorrow at 8 p. m., by the public speaking group of the Mary E. Curley School and the debating club of the West End House at the Curley Center, Centre street, Jamaica Plain.

Speakers for the Curley Center will be Robert B. Russell, Joseph Graglia and Edward F. Senion. They will be opposed by Benjamin Wax, Walter Olenick and Les Rossmore.

With an utterly unacquainted jury, the sergeant beamed at his visitor.

"It'll be a pleasure, my good man, for us to arrange for you to see your home," he said. "It's in the neighborhood you're living."

The man with the little head and the shining eyes gave a name and an address, promised he would be back again, then he turned and went.

He was as good as his word. The man who was now half a dozen busy as a bee at the New York homicide squad, reinforced by four detectives from Boston, who had been summoned by telephone.

The sharp-eyed sergeant, knowing of the many phony "Blondin" tales had been alerted on duty. The heady wanted to act prematurely.

That was why he hadn't detected the gorilla man in the first place. He had wanted another look at that circular.

Then, after studying it, he had been sure.

Now his caution was rewarded.

Trapped!

For it was the real Blondin, the real gorilla man, who was finally trapped, with plenty of witnesses present to make the circumstances plain.

Blondin, for his part, failed to protest. He was February 28, 1902, almost a year after the murder.

The fugitive was amazed—and he was not a secret of it—that police could find him so easily. He had many months in his family affairs.

Willingly enough, he told of his wanderings since his flight from Boston. He had gone from the States to the States. He had said, there he had taken a train to New York, where he had slipped as fireman on a freighter bound for Genoa, Italy, and Mediterranean ports.

Returning from this voyage, he had met friends in New York, then had found work on a truck farm at White Plains, N. Y. Of course, employment in New York was not to be had.

ADVICE on LOVE and MARRIAGE by BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Luxuries for Children Bring Woe Into Many Families

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Do you believe children should be brought up "hard" that they may be able to cope with the vicissitudes of life?

Or do you think parents should indulge their children a little, that they might enjoy some of the luxuries that perhaps were denied their elders?

Reconciliation of these two ideas between husband and wife very often leads to difficult, re-adjustment, with the husband demanding a rigorous rearing for his offspring, while the mother leans to the easy comfort side.

Take this letter as an example:

DEAR MISS FAIRFAX: I married a man whose life has been very different from my own. Our whole married life has been a terrible struggle for readjustment.

He had a poor childhood. Never had any luxuries, presents at Christmas or on birthdays. He wants the children brought up "hard." But I usually manage to get them a few little things for birthdays and Christmas.

He insists that gifts, no matter how small, are a happy day for them, such as I know when I continue your courtesies with this card. I am a wife and four sons.

No, Polly, keeping company with married men doesn't pay. Every woman who has tried it will tell you this.

At 35 you should be looking for a man who can offer you real marriage. Don't waste time. You can't afford to at your age.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX: Will you please tell me what I can do to keep my home. I am tired of my life. I was brought up by a man who was a failure. I want to do something for my children, then I would have him and try to make a happy childhood from now on.

He thinks material objectives are all there are in the world. Even so he won't care for me. I wish I could, but I can't. I am afraid he may do it. I leave a little money to myself.

When I say anything to him about doing the things he does, he always replies: "If you're not satisfied, you can get out of here. I don't want you."

Now, Miss Fairfax, I am not a pauper. My folks are dead and the little home is all I've got to remember them by. What can I do?

MY DEAR MRS. W. A.: There is only one thing for you to do. If you do this you will gradually overcome your husband's hardness. As they grow older, the children will ignore his sneers and fault-finding. And life will be much easier for you.

If he refuses to buy you birthday gifts, purchase them for yourself. Do the same for your children. Cultivate the friends of neighbors and gradually overcome your husband's domination of the home.

Personally, I believe your husband dislikes for the finer things of life to be only an act. He will be much easier for you.

BEATRICE FAIRFAX: I have a question. I am not a pauper. My folks are dead and the little home is all I've got to remember them by. What can I do?

Acquire That 'Salon-Cared-for-Look' Daily Facial and Massage Brings New Life to Dull, Tired Complexions

By DONNA GRACE

The last few years have shown a great change in the policy of some of the better class beauty salons.

As you know, in former days there was a great secrecy about every beauty treatment. They were all "Beauty secrets" no matter how simple, and no one expected to be given much information on any subject.

Operators were supposed to preserve the dignity of their profession by telling the customer nothing. It was just a little unethical to explain why certain things were done, so the whole business was left to the operator and usually the results were somewhat satisfactory—but the women of today are well informed on anything that has to do with their beauty, and the shops are more than generous in their advice and valuable instruction.

"They advocate home treatments and will instruct the customer in all the special details when facial and other treatments are given. They will be glad to show how the products may be used to good advantage at home."

There is no point in buying these products, however, if they are not put back in the cabinet for some special occasion. To the of any real benefit, they should be used regularly every day, and as one of the famous manufacturers says, there is still only a small percentage of women who will give half an hour a day to the care of the skin, so she urges everyone to spend at least fifteen minutes every day, and the results will be gratifying beyond belief.

There is no need for harsh, coarse skin or a scrawny neck and hands. For the busy woman or girl, we believe the five minutes of a good cleaning massage in the morning and ten minutes or more every night would be average time to spend in facial work.

All rubbing and manipulation must be done correctly, or the delicate tissues may be stretched and dragged. These movements are simple and can be done by any one, but be sure you use the proper technique on the cream without any manipulation.

Given in Marriage

CHAPTER 655

THE folded paper which Samuel Brixton had slipped to me, with the injunction that I give it to my father if anything happened to him, seemed to burn my flesh inside my gown as I whispered "Yes," to his impassioned entreaty.

For my father was coming toward me, and I felt intuitively that he would be displeased if he knew that Samuel Brixton had asked any good of me, so great was his antagonism to the man.

"Darling," he said, with the tenderness he always shows me, but with an imperative note in his voice, "will you please station yourself just inside the library door, and check the list of those who are here."

"I want everybody belonging to the farm house, family and guests, in the library, save your mother-in-law, the children, Mrs. Brathwaite and Miss Fairfax. I am putting another man on guard on the second floor, solely to keep the men away from the library."

He smiled at me as he spoke, but gave me no chance to reply. "I do not anticipate any real difficulty," he said. "We have our plans well laid, and there are plenty of men here. But we must not be hampered by hysteria upon the part of any of the women. I am sure, however, that you and Lillian will be able to handle them."

He smiled at me as he spoke, but gave me no chance to reply. "I do not anticipate any real difficulty," he said. "We have our plans well laid, and there are plenty of men here. Something for Nothing

By JOSEPHINE CULBERTSON

The temptation to "get something for nothing" is as persuasive in Bridge as in life—and equally dangerous!

It may well turn out to be a case of a cleverly concocted and exorbitant price tag, overlooked by the too enthusiastic shopper.

Martha Lee Recipes:

Banana Bread Popular

WE always think of bread as a part of every meal. This is a tradition of long standing coming from the days when bread was the main staple of life for many people.

While we think of white bread in speaking of bread, there are many varieties to add interest to lunches and lunch boxes fitting in with this season. Something new and different.

Banana bread, at the moment, is extremely popular—everybody's making it. And we are giving today a recipe for peanut bread, an unusual variety, and a peanut muffin that is delicious served hot as the foundation for a strawberry banana shortcake. Cheese-Ginger Bread would complete a vegetable or fruit salad luncheon nicely.

CURLEY AWARDS AMERICANISM ESSAY PRIZES

A juggler skinned straw hats and a thousand children applauded. A Scotch crouching eagle and a thousand children chuckled. A comedy team cracked jokes and a thousand children roared with laughter.

But when 36 children, three boys and seven girls from Jamaica Plain high school, were named as winners in an essay contest, bedlam broke loose at the Mary E. Curley school.

The contest was sponsored by the Michael J. O'Connell Post, No. 76, American Legion, and was open to all the students in the high, junior high or parochial schools of Jamaica Plain.

The judges were the Rt. Rev. Msgr. Francis Burke, Blessed Sacrament Church, Jamaica Plain; Carl Dreyfus, publisher of the Boston Evening American; and Boston Sunday Advertiser; Maurice J. Lacey, headmaster of Jamaica Plain High School; Frederick J. McLaughlin, president of the Jamaica Plain board of trade; and Thomas P. Donahue, commander of Post No. 76, American Legion.

TWO GOLD MEDALS

Last week the judges picked the winners from 1259 manuscripts. Last night they named the winners and called them forth from their fellow students to shake the hand of Governor Curley and receive their awards.

There were two gold medals, two first prizes for the best essay each in Americanism, for the public schools and for the parochial schools.

The two winners were Mary Roche, of 14 Forest Hill street, a student at Jamaica Plain high, and Dorothea Norton, of 61 Forbes street, a student at Christus, both of Jamaica Plain.

Two silver medals, second prizes, were awarded, one to Ruth Frankenstein, of 19 Brunswick street, Roxbury, of the Theodore Roosevelt school, and one to Helen Leland, of 8 Marion street, Jamaica Plain, of Our Lady of Lourdes school.

And in addition, there were six bronze medals. They went to: Audrey Foley, 101 Paul Gore street, Jamaica Plain; Chevrus, Charles Jackson, 1 Marlborough street, Jamaica Plain; Isabel McDonald, 202 Hyde Park avenue, Jamaica Plain; Anna M. Jung, 76 West Walnut park, Roxbury; Theodore Roosevelt, Arthur Griffin, 141 Chestnut avenue, Jamaica Plain; Mary E. Curley school; George Buckley, 3888 Washington street, Jamaica Plain; Parkman school.

TO APPEAR IN AMERICAN

The program sped through greetings by Thomas P. Donahue, commander of the M. J. O'Connell post, an opening address by J. Edward Goldberg, Americanism officer, and other talks.

It was lightened by entertainment by a vaudeville unit from the Federal Theater project.

It ended to a peak when Governor Curley made an extemporaneous address congratulating the students who won and the Legion which inspired them.

But one thing remains to be said. The two winning essays will appear in an early edition of the Boston Evening American that the public may read for themselves what high school children think of Americanism.

Whist to Aid Nun Flood Victims

A bridge and whist party to aid the Claretian Dominican Nuns of West Springfield suffered during the recent flood, will be held to-night in the K. of C. hall, at High street, Charlestown.

Dime's Worth

Sell Lake City, April 26 (AP)—As John Castle, stepped from his automobile a beggar asked for a dime and was refused.

"You're sorry," he warned. Castle laughed. A little later he found a window of his car smashed and a suitcase missing.

For Digestion's Sake—smoke Camels

TOMMY BRIDGES (left), star pitcher of the World Champion Detroit Tigers, finds digestion an aid to fitness. "I like to smoke Camels during and between meals," he says. "Camels set me right!" You can smoke Camels all you want. They are so mild they never jar the throat.

COLLEGE WRESTLING CHAMPION, Henry T. Snowdon (above, right), says: "It's my experience that smoking Camels aids digestion. Camels encourage the flow of digestive fluids—stimulate good feeling. Enjoy Camels—for digestion's sake!"

Tip on Recluse's Will Wins $25 News Award

By THE AMERICAN NEWSPAPER EDITOR

An aged recluse living in Jamaica Plain died leaving the bulk of her respectable fortune to a doctor she had known but an hour and a half.

A cab driver, realized this was news. He called the Boston Evening American promptly and thus wins this week's $25 first prize in the Boston Evening American-Sunday Advertiser Newspaper contest.

Second prize of $10 was divided between two tipsters this week. To a Tremont street astronomer $5 for her call to the newspaper editor, reporting the dramatic leap to death from a Springfield hotel of a young Connecticut girl.

A Roxbury housewife receives the other half of the second prize for her timely tip of a holdup on Shawmut avenue, Roxbury.

TRIPLE TIP SED PRIZE

The Boston Evening American was first on the street with pictures of triplets born to a Waltham couple and as a result, an alert Brighton housewife who telephoned news of their birth immediately to this paper receives the $3 third prize.

Recipients of the 10 one dollar prizes are a Quincy carpenter for reporting a three-alarm fire in the Henry Faxon residence in Quincy; a Worcester clerk who relayed the news to the American of the bias in the business section of that city; a Boston secretary for reporting the secret marriage of a prominent couple; a salesman who telephoned the news of the death of a prominent Everett girl; and a Quincy resident who reported the derailment of a train.

OTHER WINNERS

Other tipsters receiving $1 prizes include: A Dorchester custodian who relayed the news of a fatal automobile accident in Dorchester; a Stoneham man who reported an accident in which a man was killed; a Charlestown woman who phoned the news of a dog causing a tleup in the Elevated street; a South Boston man who appreciated the human interest in the story of a road, 37 years old.

And to a Rockland telephone operator goes $1 for her conveyance of the news of a bad automobile accident.

Pontiac Co. Plans Dinner, Theater

A double-header gesture of appreciation is on tap for tomorrow evening in honor of the women of the Pontiac Motor Car Corporation.

First will come a testimonial dinner at the Statler, to thank them for their assistance in the recent "Get Into Action" campaign, in which the Boston zone led the field.

The second will be seats to "Tobacco Road" at the Plymouth Theater. C. N. Kane, manager of the corporation in this district, is giving the party.

ROMANO NAMED NO. 1 BANDIT

Paul G. Woden, assistant cashier of the United Drug Company, today identified George Romano, 30, of New York, as "No. 1 man" of the trio of gunmen who stole the company $15,540 payroll on January 21.

Identification was made from the witness stand in superior court at Romano's trial on charges of armed robbery, carrying a gun and assault with a dangerous weapon on Woden.

It followed instructions by Judge John M. Gibbs to the locked up jury to disregard an identification made by Woden yesterday, the instructions being issued after a brief conference.

"Have you an opinion as to the identity of the No. 1 man of the three, whom you described as being short and stocky?" Woden was asked by Assistant District Attorney Edward M. Sullivan.

"Yes," said the witness, "the defendant in the case"—pointing to Romano.

Woden said No. 1 man carried one gun, Nos. 2 and 3 two guns apiece. He said No. 1 hit him.

"Make no noise. We won't do any harm."

His hands were tied behind his back, he said. He was told to lie down, but somebody kicked his legs out from under him, causing him to fall down.

Quins Show Big Gains In Month

Corbett, Ont., April 28 (INS)—The Dionne quintuplets are 23 months old today and you can take it from their medical guardian, Dr. A. E. Dufos, they are in excellent physical condition.

In reporting the progress made by his little charges during the past month, Dr. Dufos said the quins had cut several teeth since March 31.

Marie, Cecile and Annette each cut three, giving them 14 teeth apiece. Yvonne has 13 teeth, while Emilie has slightly behind with 12.

Marie gained half inch in height to reach 30 inches. Emilie is now 31 inches tall, having registered a gain of three-quarters of an inch. Cecile gained half an inch in bringing her height to 31½ inches, the same as Yvonne, who with Annette at 31½ inches, registered no gain during April.

The weights of the babies today stand: Marie, 23 pounds; a gain of two ounces; Emilie, 23 pounds; a gain of 4 ounces; Annette, 23 pounds and four ounces; a gain of 12 ounces; and Yvonne, 25 pounds, representing an 8 ounce gain.

REDS' SHIP SABOTAGE FACES SENATE PROBE

Washington, April 28 (US)—Searching Senate inquiry into Communist activity in the American Merchant Marine was assured today as Senator Copeland, (D) of New York, drafted plans for a far-flung investigation of ship-tieups.

Copeland will urge the appointment of a special Senate subcommittee to begin an immediate study of disturbances which already have cost west coast shipping lines $200,000 and are now afflicting Atlantic ports.

Senator Copeland has received from the Commerce Department a complete file of specific cases in which shipping companies reported interruptions to commerce.

The file lists more than 200 incidents. The Commerce Department also forwarded to Senator Copeland a transcript of a talk given recently by Captain Walter J. Peterson, Washington representative of the Pacific American Steamship Association, before officials of all war veterans' organizations.

The mariner blamed Communist leaders for the marine labor conflict.

A half dozen murders in Pacific waters, ascribed to differences between the victims and members of the marines unions on the West Coast, are cited in the commerce department file.

Hurley, Foley, McLaughlin to Honor 'Pink'

"PINK"
STIRS
CREAM

"PUT ME DOWN AS A PINK ROOSTER" chirps Morton Downey as he looks over the new Night Pink Final with Ann Marsden, feature writer of the Boston Evening American, looking on over his shoulder. Downey, who is a great sports enthusiast, reads this late complete sports edition every night. He is now appearing at Leveque's.

ALLAN WILSON climbs aboard the "Pink" handwagon. The popular head of Suffolk Downs not only is a regular reader of the Night Pink Final but he will also be at the big dinner which will be attended by leaders in all fields of sports for the Night Pink Final at the Club Mayfair next Tuesday night. The managing director of Suffolk Downs finds that he can find up to the minute race results each evening in the Pink instead of waiting for the morning papers.

WHAT DOES A FOOTBALL coach do out of season? Pat Hanley, Boston University's head coach of football, answers it simply by saying, "I follow other sports and find that by reading the Night Pink Final each evening I can get complete results of the day in sports."

BOLD VENTURE Has Good Chance in KENTUCKY RACE Trained by Hirsch

Morton L. Schwartz' Bold Venture, a dashing son of St. Germain, is a three-year-old that may go far this year. One must rate the colt a chance in the $40,000 added Kentucky Derby this Saturday at Churchill Downs.

Bold Venture has started but once this season, scoring an impressive victory in the South Shore Purse at Jamaica. The wellbred son of the imported St. Germain and Possibile outclassed Galac, Neap and Invermay in the South Shore. He was eased up in the final furlong of the mile and 70 yards, his time for the distance being 1:44 1/2.

Max Hirsch, famed trainer of Bold Venture, has just about won all the stakes and handicaps some time in his career with the exception of the Kentucky Derby. Most in his time has trained some pretty good horses including the great Saracen. He rates Bold Venture as good as Saracen was at this stage of his career.

Despite his absence from racing competition since the Hopeful Stakes at Saratoga, Bold Venture was a highly sharp looking horse in the South Shore. Bold Venture has grown and filled out well and is now heavily muscled in a fashion that bespeaks speed and staying capabilities.

The Schwartz coltcoler started eight times a two-year-old, winning three, running second twice for a total earned amount of $2500. Bold Venture although failing to win a stake as a juvenile, showed plenty in all his starts, with the exception of the Hopeful.

Bold Venture beat some of the leading two-year-olds of 1936 during the Saratoga season. He took the measure of Grand Slam and Valdictorian at three quarters of a mile, while four days earlier he had beaten William Woodward's Granville at five and a half furlongs. Granville, Woodward's best choice in the future books for the "Derby," Bold Venture has beaten in a sterling season to Mrs. Dodge Sloan's Delphian, the Florida racing season. Her Hanford will be shown Bold Venture in the Kentucky Derby.

Dusek Boys On Display At Garden

Joe Alvarez, pre-budding for the stricken Paul Bowser, hasn't so much as a referee for Friday night's exciting warfare between Yvon Robert and Duke Dusek at Boston Garden, but whenever gets the assignment will have his hands full. Dusek tries to batter down his opponents with rough tactics, and now refers to his own well-to-do stock on the banks and selling "Halt" as an attempt to make the fight Dusek observe rules of the game.

"This Bore has pushed his way to a lot of people, and I'll need to see good solid shot at him and it will be Murphy, call the cops!" You'll see me in the best condition of my career. I've been working hard in Stillman's gymnasium since I left the Henry Piers at the last Garden show, and I will be at least 15 pounds lighter than before. This will add to my speed."

Dusek will continue training in New York as he has his training mates there and he like his main rivals. He does not expect to arrive in Boston until the day of the match.

New York, April 28 (AP)—They couldn't pull the wool over the eyes of the San Diego newspapers.

They came right out and tagged the proposal to shift the Schmeling-Louis fight to the Coast as a "cheap publicity stunt."

Said it did the trick, "it's been a long time," Tom Sawyer, who was in New York when the fight was first announced, said it was a "cheap publicity stunt."

JOSEPH P. KENNEDY

Movie Post Stock Losses

RUMORED FOR PARED

Bostonian BUYING

By Hugh E. Bradshaw

The gossip is again finding employment for Joseph P. Kennedy. This time it is as president of Paramount.

As usual, however, the likeable Bostonian, who originally headed the SEC, is keeping his own counsel. No one really knows what he has in mind for the future.

A confident of President Roosevelt, it is not at all unlikely that he will build himself into the business world until after election time. Then, too, in continuing power, will take over the presidency of Paramount, we wonder if he will not follow in the footsteps of his father-in-law.

With a successful record as a movie producer, and a reputation of being able to restore lost profits to production enterprises, Kennedy is probably the ideal choice of many stockholders contemplating the decline in 1935.

Those who do not believe the New York market is the internal Jones market of the world, who are convinced after considering the events of the week end and results of the week end, that the market is not so much a reflection of the world's economic situation, but rather a reflection of the local situation in this country, might be inclined to believe that it is not so much a reflection of the world's economic situation, but rather a reflection of the local situation in this country.

Notwithstanding, as far as we are concerned the safety valve has been blown. At it always does during bull markets.

It would seem that in any financial market, it is not so much a reflection of the world's economic situation, but rather a reflection of the local situation in this country.

With the collective nerve of the trading community in a frazzled state, it is not unlikely that a technical upswing in soon may be followed by a sharp decline.

Older and kinder, yesterday's market on the big board was down. It was a technical upswing in soon may be followed by a sharp decline.

ROOSEVELT'S

"Boost"

COSTS' ADVICE

Amazes

By B. C. Forbes

American investors found at the opening yesterday that the market value of their securities had shrunk because of, according to Wall Street, President Roosevelt's so-called "breathing spell" is over, and that "the strong arm of the nation" is again being shaken as the face of the fillers of pay envelopes.

Thrifty individuals and families who have hoarded and saved and invested in American employment-giving enterprises, derived comfort from the President's latest utterances.

The fear is that citizens of this type and taxpayers in general, with the exception of farmers, are being forgotten by new Democratic administrations. They are determined to go farther than ever in the past to protect their investments.

"Reduction of costs of manufacturing is the chief executive of the United States," said a spokesman for the business community. "The business community is determined to go farther than ever in the past to protect their investments."
